ASSAILANT JAILED Prisoner Says He Was Seeking Revenge for Old Case.

Washington.—Former Senator Henderson, of Nevada, was shot through the wrist Saturday in his senate office by Charles A. Grock, a negro.

Was Old Revenge.

Charles A. Grock, who is 45 years old and lives in Takoma Park, Maryland, near this city, told the police that 25 years ago the former senator was counsel for him in a land case and that the shooting was an outgrowth of that.

Henderson said Grock had formerly been treated for mental disorders. When the man reached the office he acted strangely, Mr. Henderson said, and when invited to call later, said:

"No, I guess we had better settle this now," and drew a revolver. Mr. Henderson threw up his right arm, the bullet entered near the wrist, and apparently only a flesh wound.

While the wound was being treated Mr. Henderson, who said he had no fear of death, told the police that he was not a member of his family had ever had any other political faith. He was defeated for election last November.

Man, 33, Killed When Street-Car and Truck Collide on Jackson St.

Sustaining a broken neck and a probable fractured skull when a Franklin street car crashed full speed into a motor truck on which he was riding at noon Saturday, Glen Stanley, 33 years old, of 417 North Washington street, died at 1:15 in Mercy hospital. He was married and had one child. William Peil was motor-man of the trolley, one of the old type.

Stanley was on the rear of a Ford truck which T. Hansen, electrician, was backing out from a warehouse on South Jackson street. The automobile had almost cleared the tracks when the trolley was said to have come down upon it at top speed.

Dragged Several Feet. Peil, who was the motor-man who drove the trolley that was hit by a Northwestern train at Academy street crossing a year ago, when 22 persons were injured, states that he threw on the brakes as soon as he saw the Ford truck. The trolley, according to Peil, prevented the body from going under the wheels, but dragging Stanley several feet.

Other occupants of the auto jumped, but Stanley was trapped, thrown 20 feet with the motor car and knocked off the truck, landing in front of the trolley wheels. Picked up by Hansen, he was bleeding profusely and unconscious.

He was rushed to the hospital in the police ambulance. He never regained consciousness.

The police have launched an investigation to determine responsibility. There were no outside witnesses, it is reported.

Others on the truck were Al Donahue and his brother, Joseph. The latter was slightly injured. Al Donahue was in the box of the truck with Stanley, but jumped when the impact came. Hansen was badly shaken up. Hansen declares that the sheet of the warehouse slid up to within 10 feet of the track and that he did not see the trolley coming. He claims there was no warning given from the trolley and admits he did not sound his horn when backing out.

Our Trolley 30 Feet. All but the front of the motor truck had cleared the tracks. The trolley struck the front wheels, breaking them, smashing the radiator and knocking the top of the car off. The automobile was hurled 30 feet along the street, remaining right side up.

Until a week ago, Stanley was a fireman on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, having been laid off because of slack conditions. He came here three years ago from Milwaukee. For Hansen, who has a shop in Corn Exchange, he is survived by his wife and a five year old daughter, Helen. The accident was the sixth to trolleys this week.

The place of the fatal accident is a dangerous one, especially so because of a temporary work-house of Wood, Ford & Sons which puts out to view the street car tracks to prevent a view of an oncoming car, Chief Morrissey stated, following an investigation.

STATE HAS SCHEME TO HELP FARMERS WHO RAISE TOBACCO

DIVISION OF MARKETS WOULD WIPE OUT SPECULATORS AND BROKERS.

PLAN HEARD HERE

State Man Talks to County Growers—Big Thing for Farmer, He Says.

Through the division of markets, the state of Wisconsin proposes to lend a powerful and effective aid to the tobacco growers, especially farmers who have pooled their crops. Rock county growers learned of the state plan of central selling, the establishment of standard grades and state financial control during a meeting held Saturday afternoon in the Do Forest warehouse.

The state plan promises to radically change the present system of marketing tobacco, tending to take the grower out of the hands of the speculator, middleman and broker, creating a system direct from the grower to the big buyers and export trade.

Stanhise Robertson, noted, is that growers will realize from 50 to 60 per cent on the market value at the time they deliver their crop to a pool warehouse. Once pooled and placed on the international market, they will stand a chance to get additional profits off their own crops.

L. G. Foster, representing the division of markets, brought the plan before the Rock County Tobacco Growers' association and conferred with County Agriculture Agent R. T. Glassco, Saturday. The plan will be put before the pool associations at Edgerton, Stegaston, Sun Prairie, New London and Virgatus. The Rock County Tobacco Growers' association will consider it at a meeting of the directors Monday morning in the state capitol.

"The plan is for a state sales organization," explained Mr. Foster. "The owners will pool their tobacco through their own sales organization." (Continued on Page 2.)

READY FOR BIDS ON COUNTY ROAD JOB

Proposals Asked for Grading Edgerton Road to Indian Ford, 6 1/4 Miles.

Bids for the grading work necessary for the extension of Indian Ford road to Edgerton road will be opened by the county highway committee next Saturday. The start on the extension will depend on weather conditions, according to the county engineer, Charles E. Moore.

The road work was made possible through the vote of the board at its special meeting when it was decided to discount enough road bonds to pay for the work.

This will necessitate the sale of about $25,000 worth of bonds. The cost of the extension this summer will be $2,500 feet or 6.21 miles. There will be $5,000 cubic yards of excavation work, which is to be done by contract.

It is fully confident that we will be able to build that extension 20 per cent cheaper than the amount paid for last year's work," said Commissioner Moore Saturday. "There are no funds in the treasury for the road work, which is to be done by contract."

Passenger Airplane May Stop at Oshkosh

Oshkosh.—If a landing field is established here, not only will Oshkosh be likely to have mail service by airplane, but this city will probably become a regular stopping place for a daily airplane passenger service to be established between Minneapolis and Chicago, according to Richard Lutz of Oshkosh. Mr. Lutz said a five-million dollar corporation has been in process of organization for several months. It is planned to operate an airplane which will make daily stops at Minneapolis, Eau Claire, Stevens Point, Milwaukee, and one intermediate city. Oshkosh stands a good chance of being the other city, he said, if a landing field is established here. Mr. Lutz said the proposed fare from Minneapolis to Chicago would be $50 and the other cities in proportion. The matching will be large enough to carry 17 passengers. If the local field is established a hangar and service station will be provided.

JUST A HUMAN SIDE.
The biggest and most important side of the hospital is the human element. What are we doing for humanity, sick and broken? That is the thing we must answer. Departed glories, expended money, lost hopes, vacant homes and chairs, things we had and that have now gone, institutions that have passed out of existence, these are poignantly missed, and appreciation often comes only after they have gone.
So the best way to get at the hospital matter is to ask what we would do if there were none—if we do not raise the funds and the hospital is abandoned, closed and there is no place to go. Profit comes to those who give, in the satisfaction of giving will bring. There is no other dividend and no other person or persons will profit or receive a dividend.
What are you doing for Mercy Hospital?

We have an idea that the happiest man in Washington on March 4 was Woodrow Wilson.
FOR THE INSANE SOLDIER.
The proposal of a memorial hospital for the soldiers who have become insane or are suffering from mental diseases, has taken definite form in the legislature with a bill for such an institution and the appropriation of $500,000 for its erection. This is one expenditure of money that should receive more than mere academic attention from the legislature. We have a debt to pay and here is one installment we should settle at once. We will never be able to fully cancel this debt we owe to the service men of 1918. These soldiers who are suffering mentally as a result of the war, should be placed with insane who are hopelessly so, and be deprived of that care which properly applied has resulted in the return to full reason and strength of 40 per cent of the cases, is a crime. Wisconsin has led in the care of soldiers and it should lead in this. We are paying only 4 cents out of every dollar for taxation to the state now; we would be willing to pay an additional cent for this act of justice to the soldiers who have lost their minds as a result of the horrors of war.

March may fool the weather sharps by not going out like a lion.
ON THE ROAD TO STATE SOCIALISM.
With the passage of the socialist measure providing for the submission of a constitutional amendment permitting the state ownership of warehouses, elevators and other things through the assembly, that body has gone on record as favoring the North Dakota plan which has financially wrecked that state. In the face of the Blaine program of state economy and waste elimination, it seems to be a trifling matter to pass such a bill and the impression will be that the message is insincere and merely made for public consumption while the real program of the league is put into effect by the representatives of the nonpartisan league of which the governor is a part in the assembly. In the senate the bills providing for socialistic appendages to the state have been killed with celerity. That is a good sign and indicates the fate of the constitutional amendment proposition of the socialistic nonpartisan league.
What the members who are representing the real government of the state as set forth in and founded on the constitution, have to do, is to watch with care each measure offered for the league is determined that the program shall be foisted on the people in one manner or another at this session, and if measures fail in this legislature, to carry them over to the next legislature when they hope to have more members.

News of great moment comes from North Dakota: a bank there has been robbed of $104,000. This is the first intimation that there was that much money in the state and shows that Mr. Townley has been overlooking some things.
MAKE IT A CRIME TO OWN A REVOLVER.
Chicago will now turn its attention to the tragedy in which a woman "dead shot" is the chief participant—the other party to the social episode is dead. No sympathy is deserved by either. One pays the fiddler when one dances. There is no way but the right way—all others lead to death of body and soul. Eventually we will pass laws making it a crime to sell revolvers to any person. The revolver is valueless as a hunting weapon, it is more often a menace than a protection against burglars or hold-up men; it is a prolific instrument of crime, and carrying revolvers results in more murders than in protection to the person carrying one.
Over in Darlington, in jail since Christmas, waiting a trial that will not be given him until June, is a Swiss woman, whose stomach filled with wine, his head turned, drew a revolver and killed a friend. Had Herman Blauser not been carrying a weapon, itself against the law, he would have been free today. Had he been unable to purchase a gun he would not have carried one and the grass and flowers of spring would not be seen by him through bars and he would not be facing a possible term in the penitentiary.
The sale of a revolver should be absolutely barred to any and every person and any one having a revolver or an automatic pistol in his pos-

Nurses Wanted
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Where is the girl who wants to be a nurse? The national nursing organizations of the country are looking for her, but lately, she doesn't seem to be looking for them.
Nursing has always been a woman's work. Out of every class of high school graduates, or even out of grammar-school graduating classes, there have invariably been some girls who would be nurses. Now, one big hospital in New York reports that instead of having 35 or 40 pupils nurses entering each year, it gets only about four. That proportion is repeated all over the country, and conditions are worse in the smaller hospital schools where facilities for training are not so attractive to student nurses.
When the war offered adventure and dramatic service to volunteer nurses there were thousands of women who studied and worked untiringly—even to sacrificing their health, some of them—so long as the fighting lasted. After that, like the soldiers, most of them wanted to get back to their regular lives. Nursing with them was war work—incidental.
So the war did not flood the country with nurses seeking civilian employment. On the contrary, the lack of nurses for hospitals and homes has become acute. And because the future looks still more critical, the national nursing associations have started a campaign to interest girls in nursing as a profession. This campaign has already been taken up enthusiastically in 24 states, for the need for more nurses is nationwide.
While recruiting is being pushed, the nursing organizations are also trying to attract the hospital to the fact that they can expect to attract the kind of girls that should be in the nursing profession unless student life is made easier, and more profitable. The hospitals were beginning to see this for themselves and a reform is under way.

In the past, the student nurse worked 12 hours a day. Her classes were moved about from one hour to another or left out entirely when her services were needed about the wards. In fact, these conditions still obtain in some of the schools, but they will not last long because girls will not enter these schools. Progressive hospitals have shortened the pupil nurse's duty to eight hours, though in some schools studying and class work has to be done outside of this period.
What the nursing organizations are saying is that no hospital should take students for the purpose of getting free labor. If a hospital is going to conduct a school it should understand that its obligation to the students—to give them a thorough training—is as great as its obligation to the patients—to give them the best treatment. That they are not to feel this obligation toward the nurses they are to send out to all sorts of responsible positions is proved by such facts as those given by a state inspector of training schools. This inspector figures that 90 per cent of the training schools that he visits are to varying extents "taking unfair advantage of their pupil nurses by surrendering the rights of the pupils in the alleged interests of the sick."

One way in which the pupil is often carelessly used to help the hospital is that sometimes a patient in the hospital desires a nurse exclusively for his case but cannot pay the rate of a graduate nurse. He says he will take an undergraduate nurse, and one of the pupils is detailed to him at about half the graduate's fee, the money going to the hospital. Now if this work lasted a few days, even a week, it might be practical experience for the student. She would learn something of that particular type of disease. But the case may go on for weeks or months, and the nurse is gaining nothing.
Besides too long hours and a too flexible system of instruction in training schools, pupil nurses have had to put up with bad rooming conditions. In one hospital here an unused ward is fitted as a dormitory for the pupils. In another school the students live in houses across the street from the hospital, four or five girls in a room.
Hospitals are having to meet higher standards because they can no longer overlook the fact that young women are more cautious about starting upon a career now than they once were. No girl who enters a hospital with any understanding of the work expects to have an easy time, but she does expect and demand a broad course of training under livable conditions.

There are so many other vocations open to the high school girl graduate now that she no longer takes up nursing as the alternative of a life of teaching school. That is the main reason why the army of nurses has dwindled. Business, law, and other professions are offering big rewards, while the hospitals have gone on complacently thinking that the work would be done by service through nursing would continue as sure an attraction as ever.
Most women who take up nursing as a profession are impressed by the possibilities of the work, but nowadays a girl who is interested in this kind of social service is generally interested enough to find out exactly what she will get by her course of training. Not to be registered in the state means that the graduate with her two or three years of training cannot become a member of the Red Cross, nor would she be admitted as a staff nurse in most hospitals of recognized standing.
Training school standards are rising and so are the standards for nurses. At one time girls just out of grammar school were in a great many hospitals admitted as probationers. The tendency now is to demand a high school diploma and to make the nurses training approximate a college or normal school course with a B. S. degree. Over 20 colleges now maintain schools of nursing, usually giving a five-year course. The army also has an excellent training school where a three year course is given.

Nurses—really trained nurses—are going to be needed in ever-increasing numbers as we aim at higher standards of health and sanitation. Right now, more public health nurses are needed for child welfare work, visiting nurse associations, and medical social service departments. Nurses for home duty and for missionary work are also needed. And yet these branches offer a more varied or a more highly specialized career than nurses have ever been offered before.
The nurses associations have organized their campaign on a remarkably systematic basis. Red Cross chapters, women's clubs, boards of education, and other local organizations are told to form a local committee to conduct each campaign. And from that point the campaign is a series of posters, speeches, literature, and moving pictures until the town or state gets the recruits needed.

session should be fixed the limit which should be high. In the hands of men known to have criminal records, the possession of a revolver should be prima-facie evidence of criminal intent and the carrying persons should be laid away for a spell. Nothing but the drastic methods of the law and the unswerving action of the courts will ever end the killing of scores of humans by the wolves who carry these guns. These "dead shots" in the movies have stirred up the youth to make gunmen of themselves and they are constant contributors to crime because they can buy a revolver as easy as they can purchase a pound of cheese. Stop it.

Twenty men lined up in the assembly and voted against sending a congratulatory message to Warren G. Harding in his inauguration as president. Two were democrats; three were socialists and the other 15 were LaFollette and nonpartisan leaguers who were elected on the alleged republican ticket along with Blaine. How these men ever got into a state of mind to believe they were republicans under any adjective is beyond analysis. No one can blame the socialists or the two lone democrats on party grounds. They have an alibi.

JUST FOLKS
By EDGAR A. GUEST
LIFE'S DIFFICULTIES.
A feller's life, it seems to me,
Ain't fixed the way it ought to be.
Jas' 'bout the time he's sleepin' good,
He wakes an' says, "He couldn't be so good."
Sing there for several hours or more,
His Dad comes poundin' at the door,
An' makes him rush like everything
Becoz the school bell's going to ring.
Then when he doesn't want to sleep,
An' really feels that he could keep
Awake all night, an' wants to stay
Down-stayin' where they are anyway,
An' read his book—his sure as fate,
His Dad will say, "It's gettin' late!"
An' make him beat it up to bed,
Afore he's got his chapter read.

It's funny, but somehow it's true,
When I ain't got a thing to do,
An' I ask for errands to the store,
There's nothing I can send me for.
But just as I'm about to play,
An' Ma comes callin' right away,
An' busts the game up, cause I got
To go for things she needs a lot.
It rains when I don't want it to,
An' when I'm sick the skies are blue,
An' all the amusements dance about
To make me wish I could go out.
If I was runnin' things down here,
I'd fix 'em so from year to year
That what we really had to do
Would be the things we wanted to.

A REGRETTABLE INCIDENT.
He was the type of author who wears a velvet hat and whose beard always seems to show through the skin even after shaving. He has written a successful play. He is in the city on a Broadway tour. He is smoking a cigar and gave it that peculiar angle which is an art. When a man walked up to him and said:
"Your play reminds me of Ibsen, and yet I am of the impression that you are more like Dumas."

The author hit him on the jaw and knocked him down. A crowd collected and a policeman made his appearance.
Larger in the night court the author said:
"I am a very sorry man, but I thought that he was calling me names, and that is why I hit him."

Who's Who Today
COL. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
If Theodore Roosevelt, named assistant secretary of the navy in the Harding administration, does not go so far as his illustrious father it will not be that the Kates did not notice the similarity. The Kates did notice the relative obscurity of the assistant secretaryship of the navy department, but the elder Roosevelt leaped into fame by way of the Spanish war. As a matter of fact, Theodore the younger started his political career with far greater renown, his father's name, than the younger, who followed the former, true to his traditions, dropped his business connections almost the moment America decided to fight Germany in World War I. He emerged from the war a lieutenant colonel. This accelerated, he entered politics and was elected to the assembly in Alameda county. Roosevelt returned from France in command of the Twenty-sixth Infantry. Not all his experience in France was gained in the line, however, for he spent considerable time in Chaumont with General Pershing.

Mr. Roosevelt captured a degree at Harvard in three years and then set out to learn the carpet business. In 1912 he abandoned carpets for a clerkship in the brokerage offices of Boston, Grissom & Jenks, 40 Wall street. Later he became a partner in the firm of Montgomery, Clough & Taylor, bankers and brokers of Philadelphia. He managed that firm's New York office.

Personal Health Service
By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author
A PROPHYLACTIC MEASURE.
Now comes the merry month of wheeze, chill, sniffle, snort, cough, hawk, and sneeze; when Doctor Bunk and Salty Gump, the neighbors, are brought and damp, each night air and morning dew, and wear a charm against the flu.
But, listen, friend, lend me your ear. I tell you that water is naught to fear. A cold, a cough, a sniffle, a sneeze, if you would keep your health intact, a harmless respiratory tract, don't enter the barrage.
From mouth and nose and eyes the great tub developing coryza gives off germs galore, which sail in droplets of saliva—moisture keeps the germs alive a minute, seldom more. This germ spray carries scarce five feet.
When such a pest you chance to meet, on business bent or pleasure, maneuver thus to take your seat:
From nose to nose at least five feet—20 steps, at least, if you are neat.
A prophylactic measure, the vital thing, I'm sure, but folks prefer pathology. "The Cause? Bah! What's the cure?" If a person is showered with invisible spray and finds he has caught a head cold, what did you say? Then what should he do?
Well, I'll tell you a few of the things tried and true for the flugrip-coryza. (The name is quite new.) Through its sniffling, sneezing, and important action, this recipe serves with profound satisfaction:
Of the citrate of soda, one ounce, with the juice of a lemon for flavor and to make the cough sweeten add glycerine—once is enough. Then four drops of peppermint gives zest to the stuff. Set this apart aside. Now steep, as for ten a spoonful of flaxseed, and he can see that water is sufficient to make a hair a quart is used. Strain and add to the previous part. Adults take a tablespoonful of this brew, whereas for a child a teaspoonful will do. Give every two hours for two or three days from the very first sign of the warning malaise.
No quinine. No whiskey. No "cold cures"—too risky. Rely on home remedies. Take a bottle of magnesium citrate, fresh-made, and by all means drink freely of hot lemonade.
And rest is best. A day in bed is always wiser than keeping up with the coryza. No one who knows is

A. Authorities state that to the present time no date prior to the 6th century, B. C., has been fixed with certainty, and a fairly close approximation is possible to about 1670 B. C. only.
Q. How far from the earth are the seven seas?
A. The Naval Observatory says that the distance from the earth to the "seven seas" or "Pleides" is not known with any degree of exactness. It is estimated, however, that it cannot be less than 250 light-years, and that the distance from each other is in general not less than three or four light-years or 20 trillion miles.
Q. Is there a Kingdom of Quito?
A. A. A. Kingdom of Presidency of Quito is the colonial name of Ecuador. The name Ecuador was adopted in 1831.
Q. Is there a college known as "Norse College"?
A. Norse College is a college of Oxford University. It was founded about 1650 upon the site of an old academic institution named Brasenose. Its sign was that of a brass nose, from which it derived its name.

HOROSCOPE
The stars incline, but do not compel. SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1921. Astrologers read this as an unfortunate day until evening. Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and the Sun are all in Malicious aspect. Late in the evening Venus changes to friendly sway. It is a time in which to hold in abeyance all important matters, especially those having to do with commerce or banking. There is a sign read as forecasting rumors disquieting to business affairs, but these will be exaggerated. The signing of contracts or leases during this time is to be avoided, since disappointment is indicated. Women who have large ambitions should not put face to the test while this configuration prevails. It is an especially unfavorable time to seek any sort of political appointment. There is a sign read as disturbing to the peace and order in places in the Sun, since the stars are likely to cause them to feel depressed, irritable and doubtful of their own abilities. Warning is given that in trade there may be unexpected declines where large orders are expected and this may be especially noticeable where clothing, millinery and the accessories of women's dress are involved. Newspaper criticisms of women as well as men who hold public office are forecast. Women should cultivate the judicial and impartial attitude toward the world, the seers declare. This evening should be an auspicious time for the lighter forms of social entertainment, the party, the dance, the card game, the play, the picnic, and even love-making. Marriage and wedding ceremony is a promising time for the nation. Many Americans will go to the principal cities to identify themselves with great undertakings. Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful in the handling of money. They should avoid speculation. Children born on this day may work hard for a living but they should be successful. These subjects of Pisces usually have methodical and industrial tendencies. (Copyright, 1920 by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Population of State Reform School Grows
Green Bay—Population of the Wisconsin state reformatory is still increasing, according to Supt. R. M. Coles, who said that most of the new comers are from large industrial centers who have been unemployed. They are doing much better than on the streets for burglary or robbery. Our accommodations are inadequate to care for the increased number of prisoners received here. Supt. Coles said that the summer funds were appropriated, the new cell house in the south wing of the building could be put into shape to care for additional prisoners received.

Eat Corn Meal and Improve Your Health
There are thousands of ways to use corn meal and lend variety to the diet. Corn meal is not only cheaper than flour, but it is stimulating and healthful. There is more food value in corn than in any other product of the soil. The housewife does not draw on it for overworking the nation's greatest food reserve. The Department of Agriculture has issued an attractive booklet which tells many things about corn meal. It is full of practical and tempting recipes and it is free. Our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any one who sends two cents in stamps for return postage. In filling out the coupon print name and address or be sure to write plainly.
Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The Janesville Daily Gazette, Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.
I enclose herewith two cents in stamps or return postage on a free copy of "The Corn Meal Bulletin."

Wisconsin Dog Show in Milwaukee in April
Milwaukee.—The seventh annual show of the Wisconsin Kennel club will be held at the Auditorium here on April 9 and 10, according to Edmund Lechner, secretary. Normal Business Man Can Get Along on $3.595
Milwaukee.—The normal American business man, not the kind who goes in for fancy vests and ultra-extreme styles, can get along satisfactorily this season on a mere $3.595, according to T. P. Sherman, Milwaukee tailor. This does not include shoes, collars, neckties, socks, hats, gloves, handkerchiefs and underwear. Neither does it include the upkeep of the eight overcoats, fourteen suits and five pairs of trousers, which make up this modest wardrobe.

Whitewater, The City Beautiful

In the heart of the fertile Walworth county, the city of Whitewater, a pioneer spot of Wisconsin.

Whitewater is rather a compact city of 4,000 people. Virtually the entire city is built on a high, level plateau, and consequently Whitewater has a gold mine on all sides, good farms, Whitewater draws dairy farms. Whitewater is a city of a district where the land is worth around $200 an acre and all farmers have dairy interests, is rich, affable and enterprising.

Civic Improvements.
It has risen from a country village to a city of 4,000 people. There are miles of concrete streets. They have good buildings, good schools and municipal utilities which bespeak modern advancement. Janesville could learn much from Whitewater's concrete streets and her water signals. There are good schools, but Whitewater desires better ones.

Education is the real life of the city. It is a city of learning. Industries have not been neglected. There are mills, shops, manufacturing concerns which have grown largely through local capital. Once Whitewater sought to be an industrial city by offering bonuses but the city learned a severe lesson. The city developed and enlarged, have proved of more real merit to the city than any other factor—except her farms.

People Prosperous.
There is community spirit in the little city. One has but to see the number and prosperity of the people in their homes, to know Whitewater is not tied down by municipal poverty. There is nothing palatial about the homes. Generally they are owned by farmers, who worked hard and long to obtain a sufficient amount to purchase a home and acre. They have built good homes, with broad, tree-kept lawns, and have adopted a medium course in their municipal affairs. There is nothing radical about Whitewater. There are old established churches, dating back to the early 50's. Church and schools have played a leading factor in the public welfare of the neighboring city.

The city has sound banks, whose business is the finances of the farmers and the city residents. The city, reviving from its old ruinous, has increased the water system and took progressive measures to build sewers and streets.

Recent industrial retrenchments have not held a heavy hand of depression on Whitewater. Its big condensation plant still operates and receives rich milk, although the company is not making as much as it once did, according to Mr. Clark, the production for war's demands. The milk is being made into cheese, butter and ice cream, consequently the dairy men have not suffered serious hardships in this section.

Founded in 1837.
The early history of Whitewater is founded on the lives of settlers who came in 1837, who cared little for the graces of civilization. They had a hard task in overcoming the wilderness, the hardships of the winter of '37, when the Whitewater prairie was a trackless plain.

The story of the early Whitewater can be told by Charles N. Clark, age 57, the second oldest resident of the city. He is a remarkable man, for age has not dimmed his true reminiscences of the city. He has lived in Whitewater for 75 years and can mark every spot of early history.

With his father, John M. Clark, he came west from Rutland county, Vermont, near the New York state line. There were no railroads east of Troy at that time. The Clarks owned a farm in Vermont 20 miles from the historic spot of Whitewater.

Starting west the father and son, then 13 years old, were eight days on the Erie canal. Recounting the trip, Mr. Clark declares the canal boat could almost keep up to the early trains. After leaving the canal the Clarks took a sidewheel steamer on the Great Lakes to Milwaukee, then only a port town, the most important point in Wisconsin for settlers.

One Log Cabin.
There was only one log house in Whitewater when John Clark and his young son arrived along the Whitewater creek. That house, built of postlar logs, which was only 12 feet square, had been built by Samuel Foster of Troy. Whitewater was a timber district with open patches. In the open prairie were great beds of wild flowers, "the prettiest and the wonderful" could imagine," recalls Mr. Clark.

Axe and Plow Baid.
"When I saw those flowers, the fine forest, and the great rolling prairie I fell in love with the place—and I am yet," continues Mr. Clark.

Open fields where flowers bloomed soon gave way to nodding and swaying fields of wheat and grain. The settlers changed the region by the sound of the axe and the use of the crude blower plows. Alvah Foster is supposed to be the first settler in the then trackless prairie for he made claims to a section by writing his name on a tree, which now stands in the city. William Barron came next and is alleged to have jumped the claim of Foster. The dispute was settled.

Settlers coming from Milwaukee made their claims by the marking of the trees, which led to considerable chain jumping and land disputes.

These early settlers were followed by William and Leander Birge, Dr. Edward Brewer, Normal Pratt, Dr. James Tripp, who built the first dam, W. B. Johnson, at whose service Phil- first church services were held; Phil- first church services were held; Phil-

ELECTION OF SCHOOL HEAD ONLY STATE CONTEST IN APRIL

Madison—The only election of state-wide interest now evident in the election to be held April 5 will be between John Callahan and C. F. Cary for the position of superintendent of public instruction. No opposition has developed to the candidacy of A. J. Virje to succeed himself on the supreme bench.

No constitutional amendments can now be adopted by the legislature in time to be voted on by the people in April. Hope had been held out that the credit extension proposal for land sellers would be passed for the second time and be in shape for a referendum, but a change suggested in the provision governing the amount of money involved has held up the proposal.

The campaign for election to the office of superintendent of public instruction is ostensibly non-partisan. It is held, along with the election of judges, on the off-years when there are no political campaigns to cloud the issue.

Both candidates for the school office are starting their activity with public instruction. No organization, there will be no real campaigning for the position.

IT TASTED BAD BUT NONE KNEW IT WAS ACTUALLY DECAYED

"This is a fine time to be finding out about this," remarked Janesville service men when informed that 5,000,000 cans of salmon used for soldiers, examined by the bureau of chemistry, were found to contain rotten fish. The investigating report was submitted to congress last week.

The report condemns the war department for failing to prosecute those responsible for selling the rotten "gold fish" for use in the A. J. P. salmon packers, the report claims "were guilty of selling poisonous food for soldiers."

Recommendations were made that the department of justice endeavor to obtain from the canning companies the cost of the rotten salmon. In the investigation 56,000,000 cans of "gold fish" were examined.

"Sure, we know all A. E. F. men ate that rotten fish," said legion members.

MILTON
The funeral services for the late Mrs. Martha Robish, Milwaukee, daughter of Mrs. Herman Schultze, were held at the M. E. church here Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. S. A. Sheard officiating. Interment was made in the Village cemetery.

Personal
Mrs. Alta Wado-Snell visited friends here Monday. She and her husband, Judge Snell, have charge of the Masonic home at Wichita, Kansas.

L. H. North and family moved on to their farm Thursday. Kenneth Wells has been quite ill, but is better.

Mrs. H. Gray and daughters have returned from their California trip. A large crowd attended William Dixon's auction, Thursday, and Mr. Dooley sold a great number of goods.

Mrs. Frank Johnson has been called to Stone Fort, Ill. by the illness and death of relatives.

Dudoy and Miss Bertha Dudley, Hart-Dudoy, were recent guests of their relatives, Prof. W. D. Burdick and wife.

J. H. Wertendyke, California, delivered his address, "Stand by the Law," at the S. D. B. church Thursday afternoon.

Elmer Godfrey, Aurora, Ill., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Godfrey, this week.

E. R. Cleland has opened a plumbing shop in the Euclid block—Union high school staged a parade over their victory in both villages Thursday.

"Bitch" McNitt of the Union High was presented with a watch by local admirers for his work in the recent tournament.

Blaine Takes His Time in Naming Kerwin Successor
Madison—Gov. Blaine is taking his time about making appointments to fill the vacancy on the supreme court caused by the death of Justice Keiwin, and to replace John S. Allen as a member of the railroad commission and James Nevin on the conservation commission.

It is generally accepted that Christian Doerfler, Milwaukee, will be asked to take the position on the supreme court, with Walter Corrigan, also of Milwaukee, as a second choice. The governor may wait until after the April election to fill the position.

William Gettle, Madison, former secretary of the railroad commission, is persistently suggested as the successor to Commissioner Allen, whose term expired Feb. 1. No one has been named to succeed James Nevin as conservation commissioner, although it is known that the governor intends to place another man in the position.

THE BAKE-RITE BAKERY

SCORES ANOTHER SANITARY SUCCESS

So that our customers would be assured of the greatest care in handling our Food Products, we have installed a cashier who handles all money.

This installation was made because we did not want our clerks who handle your food stuff to also handle money which in many cases is unsanitary.

This is just another little effort of service which has make Bake-Rite Bakery one of the fastest growing institutions in Janesville.

Our customers know and appreciate the precautions we take to keep everything which we make in the line of Breads, Cakes, Cookies, Doughnuts and other food products in the most sanitary surroundings.

With pardonable pride we direct your attention to the following clipping taken from an issue of the Gazette in which the State Sanitary Inspector was quoted.

"In going over sanitation with Judge Macfield, Mr. Town declared the Bake-Rite bakery to be the cleanest he has ever inspected."
